In the pages of this edition of the OTL Picture Story, we meticulously capture and celebrate the highlights of 1 event, 4 days, 4 themes, 3 venues- OTL Africa 2018! The pictures tell the stories from the event's registrations, through the opening ceremony, conference sessions, exhibition visits, the opening reception featuring Fela and the Kalakuta Queens and the Industry Dinner and Awards featuring a live performance by Banky W.

Here in these pages, we are reminded of the industry's energy, the event's protocols, the wide spectrum and stratification of industry representation, the depth of knowledge in the sector not to mention the endless selfies, numerous friendly banter and fine wine.

As the secretariat settles into pursuing the industry's 2018 13-point communique and as we approach the set date for the host country's general elections, It is my hope that while we flip and reminisce with glee, through the pages of this edition of the picture story, that this dynamic industry does not lose sight of how far we have come or what opportunities and challenges lay ahead.

Let the flipping begin!

REGISTRATION

By 1pm on Sunday 28th October 2018, the first arrivals to the 12th Oil Trading and Logistics Downstream Expo had already made it to the Lagos Oriental Hotel Venue of the 4 day event. Our vibrant team of OTL Africa Downstream Secretariat and registration desk personnel were on ground to welcome all participants as well as deal with whatever matters that required attention.

On-site registration and accreditation of delegates and other attendees commenced on schedule by 3pm on the 28th of October and continued from 7.30am on each of the remaining 3 days of the event.

Logistics and technology innovations – such as the Onsite Self Registration Portal – were deployed this year to further enhance the OTL registration experience for all participants.

OPENING RECEPTION – FELA AND THE KALAKUTA QUEENS

Nigeria's most popular theatre house, Terra Kulture, once again played host to the Opening Reception of the 12th Oil Trading and Logistics (OTL) Africa Downstream Week 2018 co-sponsored by Dangote Oil Refinery Limited and Integrated Oil and Gas Limited.

Delegates and guests thronged the venue in anticipation of an enthralling presentation chronicling the life of one of Africa's biggest musical exports. The evening was not short on activity as guests mingled freely; enjoying an assortment of African appetizers and a wide spectrum of drinks along with trendy music from the in-house disc jockey.

As a precursor to the evening's showpiece presentation, Chairman, Integrated Oil and Gas Limited, Capt. Emmanuel Ihenacho delivered a welcome address on behalf of both sponsors, paving way for a hilarious, electrifying and thought-provoking rendition of "Fela and the Kalakuta Queens". The evening ended with scores of delegates humming their favourite afrobeat tunes with nostalgia and it was obvious that memories from the event would remain evergreen.

OTL DOWNSTREAM INDUSTRY DINNER

Sponsored by

After lengthy periods of brainstorming on policy and operational issues at the OTL Africa Downstream conference sessions, the time was ripe for delegates to let down their hair and be treated to the prestigious OTL Industry Dinner and Awards ceremony, proudly sponsored by renowned downstream giants, Petrocam Trading (Pty) and Vitol SA at the Grand Ball Room of the Lagos Continental Hotel, Victoria Island, Lagos.

THE RED CARPET

The black-tie event was well attended by delegates and guests who spared little to show that despite challenges in the industry, there was still room for relaxation and excitement. Mr Ian Brown, Operations Director, Vitol, got the ball rolling with a welcome address reiterating the necessity of promoting synergy among operators. The music was soothing, glasses of wine clinked in celebration and delegates could not resist the array of delicious intercontinental cuisine on offer.

In addition, R&B crooner, Banky W thrilled guests with high tempo performances of his most popular tunes which got the audience swaying and singing along.

The evening climaxed with recognitions for all categories of sponsors as well as special awards for downstream companies across Africa, while the highpoint of the awards was the conferment of the Downstream Man of the Year on the Group Managing Director, Rainoil Limited, Mr Gabriel Ogbechie. In all, the night was another splendid opportunity for Africa's downstream operators to unwind, take stock and strategize for the year ahead.
