OTL Africa Downstream Energy Week is the continent's leading downstream energy event over the last nineteen years, setting agenda and promoting business and operations in downstream energy markets.

OTL is a key event that brings both investor opportunities, investors and stakeholders in mid and downstream. This is the 18th OTL, if it wasn't beneficial, we wouldn't have been here today and if you see how much enthusiasm was there, the participation there you would know compared to last year, there's always been an improvement year on year and I think with more enlightenment people are more aware of this and people are driving the benefit of OTL to close out some business deals and other prospective engagements.

- Engr. Farouk Ahmed ACE, NMDPRA

OTL is a great experience, a great platform, an opportunity for players to exchange ideas, work out new partnership, question what is currently the position across board and then ensure that we are able to do things right sustainably and at the end of the day, the whole eco system be better for OTL.

- Mr. Biodun Ogunleye, Honorable Commissioner, Lagos State Ministry of Energy and Mineral Resources

What we're seeing today, throughout the whole exhibition and the presentations is that we're having people come in from different parts of the world to be part of this and that is a wonderful thing for this country. OTL Africa has opened this up, has definitely contributed to the opportunity of what the downstream sector has to deliver for Nigeria over the next many years. .

- Dr. Mumuni Dagazau, Group Chief Strategy Officer, RiverBrand Energy Limited

OTL is the premium downstream oil and gas conference in Nigeria, there is no reason why the biggest market in Africa which is Nigeria should not have a very robust conference on an annual basis that everybody who plays in the downstream space worldwide should have OTL on their calendar. I'm excited at the level of participation we've seen this year.

- Dr. Gabriel Ogbechie OON, Group Managing Director, Rainoil Limited

It remains Africa's Principal Downstream Petroleum event

 OTL is absolutely good, it is the, I would dare say the only event that sort of focuses on petroleum downstream. There's a lot of conversation around energy, there's a lot of conversation around oil and gas but this is the only time we can have conversations about petroleum downstream and from Ghana it is very useful to us because you tend to see that the challenges related to regulating the sector is not peculiar to one country. There is a lot of networking and a lot of conversations going on, so it's been very fantastic.
 - Dr. Sheila Addo, Director, Policy Coordination, National Petroleum Authority (NPA) Ghana

 OTL Africa has always set a benchmark, the OTL platform is not limited to the oil and gas industry, but is open to all the industries, including shipping. This is a forum where we have open discussions and we always go home with positive value exchange. It also allows for showcasing businesses and even discussions that relate to business. I will say, today, I don't see any other event that actually puts together something like that; so kudos to OTL, who have consistently made the last week in October as if it's a 'Christmas Day' for everybody.
